

Primary school children cook ‘waste’ cheese toasties in pop-up shop, St John’s Centre, Leeds

The Real Junk Food Project – Fuel For School, takeover shop in St John’s centre, Leeds, empowering children from local primary schools to cook with ‘waste’ ingredients

Friday 2nd December is the official launch day of the TRJFP Fuel For School pop-up ‘waste’ toastie shop. Attended by the Lord Mayor of Leeds, TRJFP Founder – Adam Smith, Fuel For School creator – Nathan Atkinson and many more.

1.00pm for 2.00pm official ribbon cutting.

Monday 5th December – Sunday 11th December, attended by several primary schools each day from across Leeds, these young people will be serving the public of Leeds with ‘waste’ cheese toasties, made from intercepted food by TRJFP. All money raised will go towards our current Go Fund Me campaign - <https://www.gofundme.com/FuelForSchool-Leeds>

“ The opening of a pop up shop in the city centre will enable The Real Junk Food Project to share the wonders of Fuel for School. This shop will showcase the work done in schools to address the issue of Hunger as a barrier to learning, highlight the work that takes place around health and well being as well as highlighting the issue of Holiday Hunger and the global issue of Food Waste. The shop is a collaboration between schools, The Real Junk Food Project, Leeds City Council and St John’s Centre.”

FOR MORE INFORMATION PLEASE CONTACT:

Adam Smith, TRJFP Founder:

Mobile – 07850143735, Email – therealjunkfoodproject@outlook.com

Kevin Mackay, TRJFP Fuel For School Coordinator:

Mobile - , Email – education@therealjunkfoodproject.org

Nathan Atkinson, Fuel For School Creator/Headteacher Richmond Hill Primary School, Leeds:

Mobile – 07718405234, Email – Nathan.atkinson@stf.richmondhill.leeds.sch.uk

NOTES TO EDITOR:

To find out more information go to <http://www.therealjunkfoodproject.org> or <http://www.fuelforschool.info>

